Mount Royal Park – June 10, 2012

It was an absolutely brilliant day! The mountain was crowded with thousands of visitors but, perched on the hilltop above Smith House, we had a lovely green area all to ourselves.

Bruce Glen provided 4 great courses that offered both fun and a different sort of challenge to those participating on the two advanced courses. Eight controls placed in the Mt-Royal Cemetery section were not shown on maps. In fact, the entire map area between #7 and #16 was blanked out. To locate the 8 controls runners had to memorize the small section of map that was to be found at each preceding control showing the location of the next point. Making a quick sketch was permitted – and for some was probably a wise move.

The new twist proved a fun challenge for the Orienteers ... as well as for the course setter, himself, in planning the legs.

There were 17 starts on the #4 “Long” Course. Francis Falardeau had the fastest time, finishing in just under one hour (0:56:03) ... obviously not too slowed by the map memory tasks. Thomas Schuessler was 2nd (1:00:11) and Matthew Hrycluk 3rd (1:03:49). Aurore Varela was the top lady in 1:19:42.

12-year old Dominic Rousseau, with dad, Stephane, did the #3 Short Advanced Course in 1:10:14. Evan Haldane was 2nd (1:14:00) and Jessica Auer, just 20 seconds behind, was 3rd.

Course One (the shortest and easiest) had more than the usual number of controls, making for extra fun “punching in”. Unfortunately, the course had the fewest number of starts. Course Two proved to be so popular that by noon we had run out of maps and had to ask “finishers” if we might recycle their map to someone else.

A really GReAT TeaM of VoLunTeers, put together by Elaine, made the day a true success. A drum roll, please, while the credits roll...

After doing course 4, Dmitri helped out with starts & finishes, and then after coaching an Orienteer around course 2, helped bring in punches & stakes.*

Following their energetic runs, Andreas, James, Dmitri, Yuliya and Olga went out again and picked up the punches tapes and stakes. None were lost.*

Jessica had the wonderful BBQ suggestion, and she and Andreas set it all up, complete with table cloth, condiments and wicked salt & vinegar chips.*

Gloria once again did extraordinary work at the Registration table, with Barbara and Anthony helping.*

And, of course, the 45 controls and punches that were in use were all planned and set up by Bruce and Elaine late Saturday and early Sunday morning.*

Thanks, ALL

HappySafe Summer!
